Measra, S. A. Weaver & Co.,—Gentlemen: In relation to my wife, I would say that from childhood she has been afflicted with a Humor. About twenty years since it appeared in a very distressing form of Erysipelas, at first in a spot of a bright cherry color on the side of the face, accompanied with a painful sensation, similar to that produced by fire. From this point it spread over the whole face, which became so swollen that for several days she was entirely BLIND, and so disfigured that for several days she was entirely BLIND, and so disfigured that her most intimate acquaintances and not recognize her. She had been in this situation three times in the last five years. Its effects sometimes appeared in small cracks in the skin, commencing back of the ears, thence extending over the sides of the head. So save and painful were they, that at night was impossible for her to allow them to touch the pillow. The discharge from these sores was so profuse that it frequently weathrough the dressings and run down the sides of the neck, and so acrid was it, that when it came in continct with the skin, the effect was the same as that of boiling water.

After any gentic exercise, especially in warm weather, parts of the body became covered with spots of a dark red or purple color, and were very painful and tender; in a short time these spots would be covered with minute blisters, which broke, and discharged, then dried up, forming a seab which would in a few days come off, lenving an angry and painful sore, looking much like a burn. This would be a long time in healing—frequently months. At one time if appeared on the feet and ankles, running much the same course, as it had done on the other parts of her body, except that in this instance it was aggravated by exercise. These sores, moreover, as aumed the character of bal ulcers, and so inflamed, that for months the same to walk. The deep scars left by them remain to the ray. It has affected her breast to that degree the she was unable to nurse suher of her lost three children. Ones she has been in S 100 REWARD—PROCLAMATION BY THE GOV.
